C BARENCE MACKAY, president of the Postal Telegraph comlions extracted from the mines of Nevada and he proposes to prove in most conclusive fashion that government ownership is a stupendone folly and the enemy of efficiency and economy. He has hured a defi at the government management of public utilities and the control of such men as Postmaster General Burleson y issuing an order reducing the war rates exacted by the government for telegraph messages 20 per cent. The administration declared as late as the last sixty days that the telegraph and telephone lines were operated at a loss and, had it not been for the pressure of public opinion and the election of a Republican Congress these lines would have remained in the hands of the government for an indefinite time. The Western Union, that monster of corporate rapacity, has been sustained by an ungodly alliance with the postoffice for which patrons paid dearly. Their rusty, rotten, useless labyrinth of wires has earned dividends with the connivance of the Democratic harpies who sucked the blood of the American people like a set of leeches. Today will see the Western Union back where it belongs trying to cope with the enterprise of its young and enterprising competitor, the Postal Telegraph company. To maintain a semblance of rivalry the huge monopoly will have to meet the cut of the

Postal and earn its own dividends without exterting them from an HEAVY LOSS TO JAPS oppressed people under the protection of government ownership. The Western Union will have to find some other way of producing revenue than by charging the widow of a soldier slain in war $2.83 for informing the bereaved family of the fact that a graft-ridden government could not transmit free of charge. Beginning today the Western Union must discover some other pretext for taking the bread and butter from orphans and helpless widows deprived of their bread winner. This is the time to apply the well worn opi gram of the Cleveland administration to "turn the rawa's out" to make room for honesty and efficiency. This is the time for Tono- after heavy fighting. pah to make overtures to the Postal Telegraph company to secure a restoration of the lines of that convern which gave the camp its best and only genuine competition. The business is here and the arrival of a competing telegraph line would place the Western Union in the diseard where it belongs with its underpoid operators and
